Israeli Surgeons Prepare To Operate On Rescued Haitian Child

1 of 13

Woodley Elysee is carried by Dr. Yuval Levy, a paediatrician and Israeli army reservist, after their arrival on the flight bringing the Israeli Defence Forces' aid mission back from earthquake-stricken Haiti, on January 28, 2010 at Israel's Ben Gurion Airport near Tel Aviv. The six-year-old Haitian boy, whose family survived the recent earthquake, was born with fatal multiple heart defects and currently has a life expectancy of about four more years. He was brought back to Israel by the aid mission and the Israeli humanitarian organization Save A Child's Heart for life-saving open heart surgery.
